A MESSAGE FROM OUR EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

As NDWBC celebrates its 25th anniversary, I am filled with immense gratitude for the journey we've shared alongside thousands of small business owners across North Dakota. For a quarter of a century, our mission has remained steadfast: amplifying the economic voice of entrepreneurs and fostering a future where every business owner has the opportunity to thrive.

This past year we expanded our reach with virtual intensives and launched new community chapters, ensuring that resources and support are accessible statewide. At the same time, we confronted pressing challenges like the childcare crisis, equipping providers with tools to build sustainable businesses and strengthen workforce participation.

Our data proves that our programming is successful and creates powerful networks for growth. Graduates leave with enhanced financial literacy, strategic planning skills, and renewed confidence to scale their businesses. These outcomes reflect the heart of NDWBC.

Looking ahead, we are excited to introduce Voxa, our new community engagement platform, designed to deepen collaboration and provide on-demand resources for the challenges our clients face most. We are also amplifying our friendraising efforts to build partnerships that advance economic equity and prosperity for all.

Thank you for standing with us as we continue to champion small businesses and create opportunities that strengthen North Dakota's entrepreneurial ecosystem. Together, we are building a brighter, more prosperous future for all.

Velva Strong Women, Strong Connections Event Successful

North Dakota Women's Business Center (NDWBC) is the leading voice for women business owners and believe that women succeed when these women succeed. During the recent Strong Women, Strong Businesses event on November 22nd, local business owners, mentors and speakers were brought together for a combination of inspiration and networking. Special guest speaker and mentor for Christy Danner opened up the meeting with Tamra Lee, President/CEO of the North Dakota Chamber of Commerce and the NDWBC Advisory Committee. Other speakers included business women guest speakers was Misty Rehbeck who is a baker specializing in designer cookies.

Misty talked about the importance of collaborating with several other women in the same business area. As a wife and mother of three, Misty believes that it's important to create more value for your products and services. She also talked about how to handle negative criticism. She explains, "and how to create an environment where you can be successful having a 'don't sweat the small stuff' attitude. She mentioned that it's key not everything will always go as planned. Misty has had her share of ups and downs, but she always comes up among other minor incidents. It's not the end of the world and you can always come back from it." She was excited about this event and the opportunity to share her passion and knowledge with others.

Tamra Mattingley started out a few years ago refreshingly��ing farm equipment but transitioned into painting for painting and opened up Sphere Painting. Taylor is now a full time painter and has expanded into a painting area. As a wife and mother of three, Taylor believes that it's important to have the freedom to spend time with her family and enjoys her second career. Taylor's main message is that people are always going to try and tell you that you're not successful, but it's always a success to be the perfect choice for the lifestyle you want. Taylor believes that if it doesn't work out, "that is life's way of telling you that you're not the right person for this. You have to be persistent, coming, but don't sit and wait. Go for it, go for what you want, follow your passion and turn it into a career."

Kristen Bechhold was also scheduled to speak, but was not able to make it. Kristen is a single mom who is opening her own business.

NDWBC Childcare Intensives Accelerator has been a true game-changer for my business. Before joining, I had the passion and vision to grow my business, but this program gave me the roadmap, tools, and confidence to make it happen...

Thanks to NDWBC, I'm now expanding into a larger facility, creating new jobs, and serving more families in my community. This program doesn't just teach you how to run a childcare business — it empowers you to build something lasting, meaningful, and sustainable for your community. I'm deeply grateful for the opportunity and the incredible team who made it possible.

In 2025, we continued expanding our childcare business education offerings to strengthen financial understanding, business leadership, and long-term sustainability in North Dakota's childcare sector. We graduated our 3rd and 4th Childcare Intensive cohorts—a ten-session program focused on business acumen, financial clarity, and operational leadership.

This year, we held a Childcare Accelerator, a growth-oriented program powered by a grant award. Through a partnership with Stearns Bank and the Association of Women's Business Centers, each of the ten Accelerator graduates will receive a $10,000 grant to implement a strategic business project developed during the course.

I absolutely love this class; it has certainly been life-changing for me. I went from an in-home childcare to a center with the help of this program. I feel empowered and well-equipped to continue the work that I started. I feel like if or when I need help, I have been provided with resources. I am beyond grateful for the NDWBC team, the mentors, the guest speakers, and my peers who have become family — as well as the incredible partnerships with Child Care Aware of North Dakota, Stearns Bank, and the Association of Women's Business Centers (AWBC), whose collaboration and support have helped make this journey possible.

TRANSFORMING IDEAS INTO STATEWIDE SUCCESS

WESTERN NORTH DAKOTA EXPANSION

NDWBC is working to expand in-person offerings in Western North Dakota. Over the past year our staff has held open office hours, free business coaching, and business collaboration meetings in Dickinson. Building on this presence, NDWBC is a partner in the newly established Western North Dakota Entrepreneurial Cohort System, a regional initiative launching in Dickinson. The program aims to connect entrepreneurs and key partners through education, economic development, and community collaboration to accelerate business growth, support startups, and expand opportunities.

BUSINESS LEADERSHIP INTENSIVES

NDWBC's Business Leadership Intensives covered business strategy, financial planning, and strategic management. The program concluded with a pitch competition where graduates showcased their ideas, and the winner received a free marketing package.

The program deepened my understanding of my business's audience, marketing needs, financials, leadership style, and strategies for navigating difficult conversations.

DAY AT THE CAPITOL

We hosted our inaugural Day at the Capitol event in Bismarck, welcoming 120 attendees and receiving support from Governor Armstrong. The event offered business owners a direct forum to engage with their local legislators and discuss the importance of small businesses.

INNOVATE ND

NDWBC guided two entrepreneurs through Innovate ND, a voucher-based reimbursement program that helps North Dakota entrepreneurs grow by funding customer and market research.

Beyond financial assistance, the mentors and advisors in Innovate ND provided invaluable support and connections that fueled our business growth.

FROM FIELD TO FEAST

We joined FARRMS on their Fargo Area Farm Tour, where our team members interacted and shared ideas with another ND organization that supports entrepreneurs. This tour highlighted the need for industry-specific programming while leveraging the knowledge of the greater entrepreneurial community, as well as the importance of agri-tourism in North Dakota.

OAKES RURAL IDEAS SUMMIT

We engaged in energizing and affirming conversations with rural champions in Oakes. The summit underscored the power of collaboration, creativity, and community-driven solutions in small towns. Our presence reinforced our commitment to supporting rural entrepreneurs and small businesses as vital contributors to North Dakota's economic resilience.

FOOD DISCUSSIONS IN DC

The AMS Regional Food Business Center conference was held in Washington, DC and brought together leading organizations to strengthen collaboration, align on program delivery, and coordinate with USDA and national partners. As a partner in the North Central Regional Food Business Center, a leading Center for this initiative, NDWBC was invited to present with Region 5 partners on their innovative strategy for quickly mobilizing regional stakeholders to advance collaborative solutions in food-based business systems and increase data-driven collaboration.

FELICITE MOORMAN KEYNOTE

In February, through a partnership with NDSU, we hosted nationally recognized entrepreneur Felicité Moorman at a Strong Women, Strong Connections event in Fargo. This event brought together women leaders, business owners, community members, and young entrepreneurs and offered insights on leadership, innovation, and resilience while creating meaningful connections. The event reinforced our commitment to strengthening regional collaboration and providing high-impact professional development opportunities for current and future business leaders.

MAKING IMPACTFUL CONNECTIONS

Our goal was to create an event for owners that is in a league of its own. Over the course of three days, Summit engages owners in meaningful conversations and peer-to-peer sharing.

Summit accelerates business growth through deep connections and hands-on training. It provides an environment for growth-oriented owners to think bigger as they scale their businesses.

Entrepreneurship can often feel lonely when you live in a rural community. Connecting with women entrepreneurs in person from all walks of life, backgrounds, and experiences, like at the ND Women's Business Summit, has been a great way to build my network, feel inspired, learn something new, and gain new insights. Not to mention, being reminded of the support and help that's available to women entrepreneurs in our great state.

A big part of my early success came from the North Dakota Women's Business Center. I attended their summit in Medora, and that single event opened the door to so many connections. The NDWBC community gave me trusted relationships, and all my first clients came directly from people I met there, and connections made by their leadership.

BRIDGING THE GAP BETWEEN VISION & CAPITAL

Funding remains a significant barrier for women entrepreneurs, and NDWBC works to address it through practical support. Our business coaching, grant workshops, and Voxa—an on-demand platform with tools for cash flow, budgeting, and funding strategy—help entrepreneurs move from uncertainty to informed decision-making.

By improving access to capital and financial guidance, women-owned businesses are better positioned to stabilize, expand, and hire. These outcomes strengthen local economies and contribute to sustained community growth.

ANONYMOUS FUNDING SURVEY

This year, we enhanced our comprehension of the funding landscape with our Anonymous Funding Survey, which collected insights from more than 930 small business owners.
